JUDGMENT (Per Sri B.Prakash Rao, J)

Heard both sides and at their request, the main appeal itself is taken up for disposal.

This appeal is at the instance of the unsuccessful writ petition who filed the writ seeking to assail the selections conducted on 05-11-1996 by the 1st respondent was not in his favour.

The main allegation made in support of the writ petition is that there has been correction in the proceedings and that itself would amply show that the selection was not proper. This aspect was considered by the learned single Judge and found that, that itself is not a ground to favour the petitioner or any finding as against the selections made. Except the said plea, no other pleas were raised. In this appeal, the learned counsel for the petitioner sought to place further grounds that there are mala fides in the selection process. These aspects were not raised before the learned single Judge. In view of the same, we do not find any justification in the bald plea raised at the appellate stage.

Accordingly, the writ appeal is dismissed reiterating the same observations made by the learned single Judge. It is always open for the appellant to apply afresh for any future vacancies. No costs.
